Chamber Discusses Fair Board Value

Town festivities of a Klondike Days nature was the subject of an evening's discussion at a special meeting of the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce held in the Town Office last Thursday.

The meeting was called to consider a suggestion that a barbeque and sports be held on the Labor Day weekend with the prize-winning steer purchased by the town at the 4-H Achievement Day offered as the blue plate special.

The meeting however, decided that as the Lions Club is planning a big day with barbeque, baseball tournament, races etc. on September 9th, the event planned for only five days earlier could possibly affect the Lions plan and the proposal was withdrawn.

The meeting went on from that point to a thorough discussion of community activities in the way of sports days and the possibility of the formation of an exhibition board.

The Board, as envisioned at the meeting, would aid in over all planning of events if it gained the approval of various organizations in the town.

It was decided that a public meeting to discuss the possibility of an exhibition board be arranged for some time before the end of September. Named to a committee to arrange such a meeting were Wally Peters, Don McKenzie and Wendy Sekura.

The meeting also discussed the feasibility of continuing the Labor Day Canoe and raft race and it was decided that pending the acquiring of suitable safety boats that the events would be staged again this year.

Glider being towed aloft at the Penhold Air Base

Glider Flights in Store for Air Cadets at Penhold Camp

A glider, or sailplane, carrying an instructor and a cadet is towed aloft for a 15 minute familiarization flight. This flight is one of the highlights of the summer camp at CFB Penhold for cadets from Quebec, Ontario and the Western Provinces. Two army

1-19 "Bird dogs" tow the gliders to approximately 2000 feet, at which time the glider releases, then gracefully descends to the airport below.

In order to allow each of the 2400 cadets attending summer camp an opportunity to fly in the glider, operations run from eight in the morning to five in the evening during the week and from eight to twelve-thirty on Saturday. Hopefully each cadet will spend 15 minutes in the air.

Three Air Force "Otter" aircraft are also used to familiarization flights for the cadets.

Cadets from the Drayton Valley Squadron will have an opportunity to try gliding when eleven cadets and an officer from the squadron attend the camp during the last two weeks in August.

Summer Camp at CFB Penhold is a busy place during July and August and Rick Stojak, R.C.A.F. Public Information officer advises area flying buffs visiting the Red Deer Municipal Airport that gliding operations will

Itinerant flights should approach the airfield at an altitude of 2500 feet or above, contact Penhold air radio of flight advisory and use left hand circuits and runways.

Named Local Brand Inspector

Mr. Lawrence Sharkey of Drayton Valley has been appointed a Deputy Brand Inspector for this area by the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Livestock Branch.

His appointment became effective August 1st.

While some of the larger animals have been unintentionally placed in danger of extinction by man's activities, constant and determined efforts are required to control insects and protect crops.

Because insects are highly adaptable to changing conditions, the problem of control poses a continuing challenge to scientists, points out Dr. J. A. George of the CDA's Research Station.

Despite the progress made so far, the war against insect pests is far from won. "They continue to destroy vast quantities of our food and fabric, to molest our animals, and even to feed on us directly. Insects cannot be frightened away, or discouraged by repeated assault and widespread destruction. So long as some remain alive, they will feed and multiply," the researcher comments.

Insecticides provided the first satisfactory means of controlling insect pests and they are still the best defence against them. The photo above shows a high powered spray unit sending out a fog of insecticide on an apple orchard in the never-ending battle.

Drumheller Rec. Course Enriching Experience

BY GLENDA GALLOWAY

A visitor approaching the city of Drumheller is suddenly confronted by a mile wide valley where the Red Deer river has excavated below the prairies of Central Alberta, and to me arriving as a temporary resident, it seemed like a pit. When you live in Drumheller you can't see out.

I went to Drumheller, sponsored by the Drayton Valley Lions Club, to take a course in Recreation Leadership at the Drumheller Vocational Academic High School, and the short month I spent there has been perhaps the greatest enrichment to my education.

A typical day started at 7:00 a.m. when the fire alarm sounded, leaving two minutes to get up, dressed, and outside for "jerks". Now for those of you who don't know, "jerks" is a five minute exercise period, it is an old tradition of Rec. School and one which is hardly appreciated. Breakfast was served at 7:15 a.m. - and so the day was begun.

Classes were in session from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. with everyone in bed and asleep by 10:30 p.m. Saturday was a real thrill, we still had to get up at 7:00 a.m. but we only had classes until noon. Sunday was more fun yet, this was the one morning we were permitted to sleep in -- until 8:15 a.m.!

The weekends were usually spent sightseeing or hunting through the hills and everyone's room was full of old stones, bones, and shells. I remember one girl found some weird-looking teeth and got all excited, thinking they were from a dinosaur, but when she took them down to the museum they turned out to be horse's teeth. Needless to say we were all disappointed.

To you all, I strongly recommend a visit to Drumheller and district I'm sure you'll enjoy it every bit as much as I did.

Thank you Lions Club, for affording me this experience.

August Food Outlook

Continued strong beef prices and lower lettuce and tomato prices are forecast for August by economists in the Canada Department of Agriculture. Here are the details of their food outlook for the month:

EGGS: Egg prices have strengthened from a weak position and further small increases are likely as supplies decrease seasonally.

TURKEY: The 1967 heavy turkey crop has started to market and will be equal to last year. Price outlook is slightly weaker than a year ago. Broiler turkey marketings will be reduced, but storage stocks are larger.

CHICKEN: Broiler chicken marketings will be up both seasonally and from last year. Little price change is expected from current level.

PORK: Supplies continue plentiful and no immediate changes in prices are expected.

BEEF: Under heavy seasonal demand, prices will continue strong at current levels.

Natural gas has been in use in Alberta for more than 75 years, since it was first put into service for street lighting in Medicine Hat.

Sixty-two Clinics were held during this quarter with total attendance of 2,598. The attendance at the Clinics was slightly greater than the previous quarter. The follow-up system has been in use since March and has led to a general increase in Clinic attendance.

In Hinton, the program was completed at the Crescent Valley School; during May and June pre-school clinics were held at the Health Unit office.

During this quarter, 357 new prescriptions and 54 re-fill prescriptions for fluoride supplements were dispensed from the Edson office. Twenty-six requests came from Drayton Valley and area, with only 3 of these requests for refills. Edson and area residents requested 126 new prescriptions and 21 refills for a total of 147 prescriptions. The remaining 238 requests for fluoride supplements were from Hinton, with 30 of these requests for refills.

Calf Healthy, Happy Despite Lack of Hair

An unusual calf born earlier this year on the George Van Ember farm at Berrymoor is the hairless model shown above with Mr. Van Ember's grandsons Harold and Hal.

When the photo was taken the calf was two days old and almost hairless. It is now four months old and still has only thumbnail size patches of hair.

The calf is in good health and normal in all other respects except for facing a sunburn hazard and for this reason spends most of its time in the barn.

Mrs. Muriel Sanford, Linda, Kenny and Susanna Crawford of Edmonton were in Entwistle Tuesday visiting the Oliver's and Kenny has stayed to visit with his cousin Harold for awhile.

On July 24 a few people turned up to help clean the community hall. The floor was scrubbed and it is receiving a new shiney face.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Brooks and family spent a few days visiting their relatives here before going to Comax, B.C. where he is stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Luedtke have moved their trailer over near the old village office property.

Mr. Roy Murray was home for a few days recently and spent his time giving the yard a real clean-up and a face lifting.

Metis Hunting the Buffalo

Metis is a French word derived from the Latin miscere to mix. The name was given to the offspring of the white fur traders and the native women of Canada - it was natural for these men, living among the Indians and far from their own traditional society, to unite with the Indian women.

The Metis developed as a separate culture. They were proud of their mixed blood, and being remote from white settlements for more than a century, they evolved an independent way of life that was neither Indian nor European. Physically they combined the best characteristics of these two races; according to Southesk, they were "tall, straight and well proportioned, lightly formed but strong and extremely active and enduring." Another observer wrote: "They are a merry, light-hearted obliging race, recklessly generous, hospitable and extravagant."

The Metis were as free as the wilderness they were born in. They loved the excitement of the hunt. Many of them depended on the buffalo for their livelihood, while others would leave their small farms to join in the chase. On occasion they would use the original Indian method of hunting down a herd and stampeding it off a cliff or creek bank. They would dry the meat and grind it with crushed berries to make pemmican for the winter. The buffalo (or Bison) also provided skins for warmth and leather, and the dung was used as fuel. Full-grown male buffaloes were up to six feet high and weighed a ton or more.

Concentrating in the Red River area, the Metis gradually had to abandon their farms to follow the dwindling buffalo herds farther and farther west. These hunting expeditions were well organized. The Metis used buffalo carts, traveled in bands under chosen leaders, and hunted according to a code of rules and restrictions. Often they were accompanied by priests who celebrated daily mass, taught the children and visited the sick. In winter, many of the Metis camped out rather than return to Red River.

As the buffalo grew scarcer, these camps became permanent villages and eventually the villagers had to fall back on farming and fishing to make a living.

Card of Thanks

"We want to thank all who helped recover the bodies of the two boys (Ralph and Erwin) I will endeavour to name a few that I can remember at present. We want to thank the police force in Drayton Valley; the doctors, the swimmers and divers, those in the boat; those who brought equipment, blankets etc; all the truckers and owners that so readily and willingly came to drain the pond; the McCullough's that were so nice to me and helped with the younger children; all those who used their vehicles to get help and all who sent us flowers, cards, treats and money. We sincerely thank you. I find I cannot answer all the cards etc., so have decided to use the local paper to help us thank you all. In our time of great need you all so willingly helped. Jesus said: "As much as you do it unto one of the least of these, you have done it unto me". So I am sure you shall have your reward. Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Combs and family.

COOL SALADS

There are all sorts of mold-ed jelly salads for you to choose from - including those with fruit, vegetables or meat. Make them ahead of time if you're entertaining.

Jellied salads can be kept up to 3 days in the refrigerator if covered with moisture proof wrap. Those which contain meat should not be stored more than a day.

For containers use fancy molds or paper cups (especially good for taking along on picnics), muffin tins, loaf pans and kitchen bowls. Some suggestions:

Use good quality molds, preferably aluminum.

Use sufficient gelatine - the larger the mold, the greater the proportion of gelatin to liquid required.

To-set quickly, use half boiling water and half ice cubes.

Add items to the salad when gelatin is thick and nearly set.

Use salad oil on the mold to assist in unmolding; you may find you won't have to dip in hot water at all.

To remove the salad, loosen the edges with a small pointed knife; a cloth soaked in hot water placed around the mold should moisten it enough to unmold the jelly.

Observe Golden Anniversary Of 4-H Clubs in Alberta

4-H Clubs of Alberta commemorated their Golden Anniversary at Olds Agricultural and Vocational College on August 2nd with a cairn dedication ceremony, banquet and evening program.

Activities begin at 5 p.m. when Youth Minister, Hon. Robert C. Clark and Mr. W. S. Elliott, of Edmonton, son of the late W. J. Elliott, who founded the first club in Alberta, unveil an 8 foot cairn mounted by a sculpture symbolic of 4-H.

The late W.J. Elliott, a former principal of Olds Vocational and Agricultural College, started a club known as the Alberta Boys' and Girls' Pig Club at Olds in 1917. In 1952 the name was changed to 4-H clubs of Alberta. This popular rural youth program has grown to 520 clubs throughout Alberta with a membership of more than 9000.

Following the dedication of the cairn, Mr. Lawrence Fisher, member of the first club in 1917 and Mr. John Robinson, 1967 4-H Major Award winner for Alberta, will plant a tree near the site of the cairn.

The evening program is planned for 7:30 p.m. in the Mechanic's Building and special features include the introduction of members of the first club in 1917, a review of 4-H by Mr. B.V. Whitbread, an early District Agriculturist, a fashion presentation by 4-H club members, a musical interlude and candlelighting ceremony.

Cattle ranches and packing plants in Alberta combine to give the province the lead in beef production for all of Canada.

BERRYMOOR

Mrs. D. Martin
Correspondent

Your regular correspondent Bea Cropley has obtained employment in Edmonton. Our best wishes go with her.

A number of former residents of our district have been visiting during the past week or two. Among them: Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Bentson, from Wetaskiwin; Mrs. Hanna Peterson from Coronado, Alberta and Pete Mattson from Ontario. It was a real pleasure to see these folks again and their visits brought back memories to many of us of days that are long past. Each one of them commented on the many changes that have taken place during the time that they have been away.

Mrs. Ruth Berry has returned to hospital in Edmonton. We all wish her a speedy and complete recovery.

Mrs. Bernice Hoffner has also been on the sick list. We hope that she too, will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martin and family from Cowley, Alberta have moved a trailer onto their place and are busy breaking up land.

The Bill Roberts family have had a house moved onto their place so will probably soon be taking up residence there.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Ember and family and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pischke and family attended a wedding at Barrhead over the past week-end.

A sincere vote of thanks to the Lindale 4-H Swine Club for the attractive name plates that they have put up at each residents gate way.

A number of district folks visited Edmonton's Klondike Days.

Our local womens group: The Berrymoor Three B's held a meeting and clean-up day at the Berrymoor Cemetery on Saturday, July 29th.

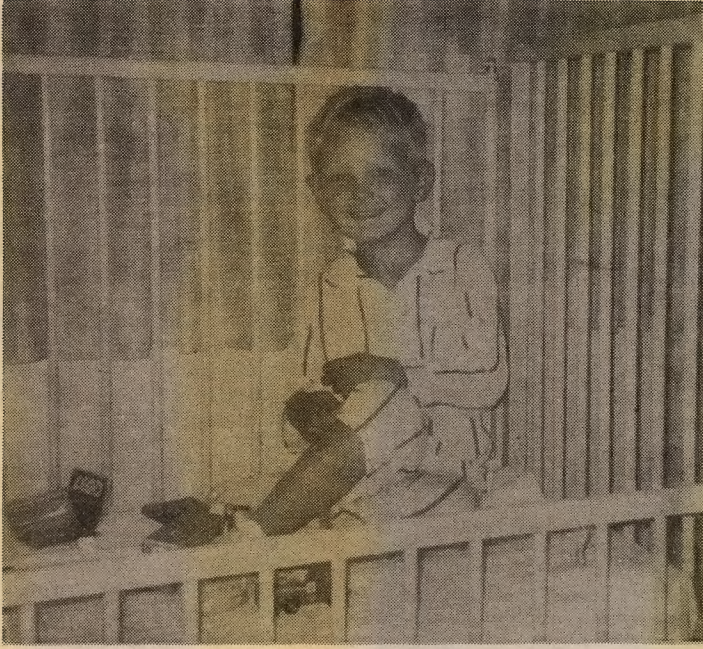

It's all very well to add years to our lives, but wouldn't it be far better to add life to our years? For many men, and women too, retirement means a descent into misery, because they haven't prepared for it, materially, emotionally or spiritually. Read "Planning For the Later Years" distributed by your Mental Health Association.

MEAT CONSUMPTION UP

Canadians are eating more meat. Last year, per capita consumption of meat in Canada advanced to a new level of 188.4 lb. The continued rise in personal income is the major factor in boosting consumption reports Neil MacVicar, assistant business news editor of Maclean Hunter in Ottawa.

Quoting, government officials, MacVicar writes that the new level represents an increase of 11 lb. over four years since 1963 and 20 lb. more than in the 1956-60 period. This change is almost entirely due to beef and poultry meat. Between the average of the years 1956-60 and 1966, per capita consumption of beef rose by 13 lb. or nearly 20%. Poultry meat increased by 12 lb. or nearly 50%. Pork consumption declined by almost 3 lb. and other meats had slight changes.

Couple Wed At Wildwood

The Lutheran Church in Wildwood was the setting of a pretty wedding when Reta M. Kapp became the bride of Lawrence David Enge.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Peter Kapp, wore a waltz length gown of white chiffon over silk. Her lace shoulder length veil was held in place with a sequin headpiece. She carried a white bible and pink roses.

Maid of honor, Charlotte Winter, wore a gown of pale yellow net with matching headpiece and yellow corsage. Bridesmaid Lorna Chodak wore a blue lace dress and headpiece and pink rose corsage.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Kapp chose a blue and white dress with white carnation corsage and accessories. The groom's mother wore a dress of blue lace, matching hat, with white accessories and blue and white carnation corsage.

Best man was Bruce Winter and Jim Lackner acted as usher.

A reception and dance were held at the Donahue Hall. The happy couple will reside in the Chip Lake district.

First copy off the press of "CHINOOK ARCH", the Centennial Anthology published as a joint project of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Authors' Association and the Government of Alberta, was presented recently to the Honourable E.C. Manning by John Patrick Gillese, Editor-in-Chief.

The Anthology consists entirely of the works of Alberta authors which have, for the most part, appeared in publications all over Canada and abroad, comprising a unique literary treasure - a "living history" of the province and its people, told by its own authors.

Library News

This year the library board decided on a summer schedule of Friday only from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9. Friday evening has proved particularly popular.

Recent additions to the adult section of the library include: "Another Spring" by Loula Grace Erdman. This is a story of a little known phase of the American Civil War - the expulsion of all inhabitants from four western counties in Missouri. Harried by roving bands of hostile Indians their homes burned, thousands fled the proscribed area. "When Eight Bells Toll" is a typical Alistair MacLean yarn with murder, theft of vast sums and clever investigators. For Alistair MacLean admirers. "The Yukon Story" by W. R. Hamilton was brought to us by the Yukon Voyageur Canoeists and is a gift of the Whitehorse Chamber of Commerce. Several pages of reproductions of photographs help to tell the story of the Klondike Gold Rush of '98. The author took part in the great gold rush and lived for ten years in the Yukon.

May we remind you that an adult membership costs only one dollar for twelve months. You are permitted to take as many books as you think you can read in a lending period (two weeks).
